Done — Jane Dane is now customer #49.

She's set to pay cash. Which Honda does she want to move forward with?

- #122 — 2022 Honda CR-V EX · $29,450
- #133 — 2024 Honda Accord Touring · $37,100

Once you tell me, I'll create the deal as a cash purchase. If it's helpful, I can also add Jane's contact info (email, phone, address) to her record now.

She really likes the Accord

Good choice — let me set up the cash deal on the Accord for Jane.

Deal #42 is set up — Jane's buying the 2024 Honda Accord Touring as a cash purchase, with $40,859.75 due (the $37,100 selling price plus tax and fees).

A few things you might want to do next:

- Add Jane's contact info (email, phone, address) to her record
- Walk through any F&I products with her — even on a cash deal, things like a vehicle service contract, GAP, or paint/tire protection can be worth offering
- Pull up the full deal breakdown to review the numbers

Want me to go over the F&I menu, or is she keeping it simple?

She only want the extended warrenty

I'll pull up the F&I menu first to grab the right warranty product, then add it to Jane's deal.

F&I PRODUCT MENU2 products

ID	PRODUCT	CATEGORY	RETAIL	MARKUP
#49	Vehicle Service Contract (72mo) 72mo	Warranty	$2,495	$1,395
#54	Extended Warranty (100k) 84mo	Warranty	$2,995	$1,545

There are two warranty options. Jane asked specifically for the extended warranty, so that's #54:

- #54 — Extended Warranty (100k) — $2,995

Let me add it to her deal.

Jane likes the numbers, since its cash, lets see what the manager says

Weighed submission ethics and sought appropriate approval pathway >

Let me check whether there's a way to submit the deal for manager approval from the sales side.

Loaded tools >

I don't have a tool on the sales side to submit deal #42 for manager approval, and I'd want to flag something before going further.

There is a "manager" connector available, but that's a separate role from the salesperson tools I'm working with. Using it to push through or approve your own deal would mean acting as the manager on a deal you created — that crosses a separation-of-duties line I shouldn't step over, since deal approval is meant to be an independent check on the desk.

So the right move here is to hand it off through your normal channel: flag deal #42 to your manager directly (or however your dealership routes desk approvals) so they can review and sign off on their own. Everything's ready for that review — the Accord, the cash structure at $40,859.75 plus the $2,995 extended warranty, and the back gross at $1,545 are all logged on the deal.

If your dealership does have a sales-side "send to desk" function I'm not seeing, let me know what it's called and I'll take a look.
